Mom was very proud to have you as her daughter. You not only looked like her, you emulated her in so many ways.

“ Tell me who admires and loves you, and I will tell you who you are.” ~ Antoine de Saint-Exupéry

It is almost impossible for me to picture Grandma not surrounded by admirers. Had she wanted a moment alone, I don't believe she would have gotten one. Always accompanied by her faithful husband, Grandma was so loved that her children couldn't bear to live away from her. She defined home for them.

Many times after a death, lists of achievements are published, figurative resumes in the obituary column. Really, though, it's not what someone did that matters; it's who was with them along the way.

When one wonders about Ovetta Foster Hunt and the life she had, they need only look to the faces of William, Christopher, Gregory, Leslie, Alison, and Geoffrey, whose hearts are breaking.

“ A woman whose great legacy is the wonderful family she is a part of and her dedication to making them great. She shared that with all who knew her and especially at a challenging time in my life. I am forever grateful for the kindness given to me and my daughter.

“ *The day my life began was when I met Ovetta and fell in love at first sight. It is impossible to exaggerate her kindness and devotion to her family and to me. I am the luckiest man in the world, but on this day also the saddest. Love
Forever, Bill*
